KIDS VOTING NC 4-H BEAUFORT COUNTY

Our Mission

Kids Voting NC helps youth younger than 18 understand and believe in the power they can have as engaged civic participants and informed voters. As young people become more knowledgeable and engaged in the voting process, they often serve as catalysts within their own families and communities. Through their enthusiasm and commitment to civic participation, youth inspire adults to become more informed and engaged voters themselves. Across generations, we can make our communities, our country, and our world better.

MESSAGE TO YOUTH

YOUTH Have Power

*"What's the point of being civically involved? No one's going to listen to me—these elections don't even affect me." Not true!

Kids Voting youth leaders asked this year's candidates about the biggest issues concerning youth today. And they answered! They listened to youth because WE ARE the future. In a few years WE'LL be the ones voting- even running for offices! How can we do that if we aren't civically informed and engaged? That's just it: we can't! In order to become civically engaged you must realize that:

YOU HAVE POWER!

Even the youngest of youth can become more civically informed by participating in Kids Voting elections! In the following pages, hear more ways our youth team know youth have power in this election.

THIS IS ABOUT YOU!

Offices on the ballot directly impact youth! The local elections contain the County Commissioners (which funds your schools), NC Legislature (which can help create jobs), and the NC Labor Commissioner (who provides you worker training and education)!

Youth make up a big chunk of NC!

Let's put that to use and make our voices heard!!

Let the the KV Civic Youth Leaders tell you even more ways you can have power in this election. Scan here for their video messages to you!

YOU CAN BE INVOLVED TOO!

We're creating this guide to give youth direct, accessible, youth-focused information that is easy and fun for youth to understand. Read about the other ways YOU can get involved and then check out the videos in the following pages to learn how we each thought youth have power in this election!

- Vote for Kids: See the How to Vote for Kids page to see how and when you can vote. Your vote doesn't determine who is elected — this time — but it does voice your opinion and tell people who our youth would choose.
- Use Your Voice: You can call candidates' attention to issues that affect youth through social media, discussion with others, and attending candidate forums & events for issues you're passionate about!
- Create Your Own "Get Out The Vote" Campaign: Whether it's giving out free lemonade while talking about voting, having a fun craft-sesh with friends making election information pieces, or giving away mini candy bags with a "Go vote!" message inside, have your own fun and creative campaign to encourage voting!

Message For Parents & Caregivers

62% of youth say they hear about elections and voting from their families – more than any other source, including schools! You are the most important influence on your child's civic motivation and activities. We encourage you not only to be engaged in the elections yourself but to share that engagement with the youth in your life.

★ Family voting

Vote together as a family! Take your kids with you when you cast your ballot and make sure they cast their own with Kids Voting Beaufort. Your kids will see and share your enthusiasm for being part of our democracy. Youth who are exposed to voting early on are much more likely to become regular voters as adults!

Digital Literacy

WHAT'S DIGITAL LITERACY?

Chances are you use the Internet or social media every day. Let's face it, it's almost impossible not to. Elections are no exception. A recent study by Pew found that more than 80% of users across X, Facebook, Instagram, and TikTok say they encounter news-related content. But how much of that can we trust? How can we become more informed voters in the Internet Age?

Enter digital literacy. Most simply, digital literacy is skills that help you wisely navigate online information. When researching candidates or other election-related issues, digital literacy helps us choose trustworthy sources.

WAIT, SERIOUSLY? YOUTH NEED TO LEARN THIS?

What's the difference between disinformation and misinformation? Are .orgs always more reliable than .coms? Could you answer these questions? There are all sorts of popular misconceptions about the digital world! Debunking them is the first step in digital literacy.

Actually, let's debunk one right now! Just because youth are tech-savvy doesn't mean we're digitally literate.

DON'T BELIEVE US?

Here's what the research shows:

In a 2019 study of American high schoolers, could not tell a climate change denial website was funded by the fossil fuel industry.

96%

In a 2016 study of American middle schoolers, believed a political advertisement was a real news story.

80%

In a 2022 study of Stanford undergraduates, only could correctly identify a satire news site as satire.

34%

bit.ly/3XnRjsn

Test your own digital literacy knowledge with this Kahoot quiz! You can even see how you rank against our KVD Youth Civic Leaders!

SO WHAT DO PROFESSIONAL FACT-CHECKERS DO?

They don't ...

- Use a checklist of strategies
- Assume having a ".org" or ".edu" means a site is legitimate
- Trust the "About Us" page or labels like 'expert' or 'peer-reviewed' without fact-checking

They ask:

"What do other sources say?"

Stanford researchers found that without exception, the pros practice something called lateral reading.

Lateral reading is simply clicking off a site or message to consult better sources on the Internet.

SOME HEALTHY HABITS

When you're scrolling away...

If it gives you the ick, simply don't click!

If something makes you emotional or just seems off, don't click it! Scroll on!

Don't let the algorithm think you're attracted by that kind of content!

If you have a minute...

Look at what the experts say!

We recommend: The Poynter Institute's International Fact-Checking Network at poynter.org. It's a network of the world's top nonpartisan fact-checkers. Check out more of their resources below.

How Elections Work

A crucial step in being an informed participant is knowing how our system works! Here are some key election concepts.

WRITE IN CANDIDATES

KIDS VOTING BALLOT	ADULT BALLOT
The Kids Voting ballot does not permit write in candidates for any office because of difficulty in tabulating and the complexity of write-in laws.	Adults have the option of writing in a candidate other than the ones listed for many races on their ballot. However for that vote to be valid, the person they write in must have qualified as a write in candidate for this election with NC Board of Election. If no one has qualified as a write-in candidate for a partisan race in a general election, the write in option will not be included.

DISTRICTS

KIDS VOTING BALLOT	ADULT BALLOT
All Kids Voting youth voters can vote in all of the district races for NC House & Senate and the judicial races. You won't be able to do this when you are an adult, so take advantage of it now!	Adults must live in a NC Senate or House district in order to vote in that race. Each adult voter has only 1 NC Senate and 1 NC House district they are eligible to vote in.

UNCONTESTED ELECTIONS

An uncontested election is one where the number of candidates on the ballot is less than or equal to the number of seats up for election, and you will notice that there a number of races like this on the 2024 ballot – nearly 70% nationwide. There are more uncontested races at the local levels than at the national level. Why are there so many races without a choice? What is a voters responsibility in educating themselves about the candidates and voting in an uncontested race where there is no choice? Read some of the resources in the deep dive section, and see how you would answer these questions.

DETERMINING WINNERS

KIDS VOTING BALLOT	ADULT BALLOT
All elections on the Kids Voting ballot are determined by who gets the most votes.	Every candidate is elected through popular vote (the one who got the most votes) EXCEPT the president; they get chosen through the Electoral College . (see below)

HOW THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE WORKS

Every candidate, except the president, is elected by popular vote, meaning the one with the most votes wins. The president, however, is chosen through the Electoral College. Each state has a certain number of "electoral votes" based on its population. The number of electoral votes for a state equals the total number of its Senate and House of Representatives members.

EX: North Carolina has 2 senators and 14 house representatives, which means NC has 16 electoral votes!

The candidate who wins the majority of votes in a state receives all of that state's electoral votes, except in Maine and Nebraska. These two states split their electoral votes: the winning candidate gets most of the votes, while one electoral vote is awarded to the winner of each congressional district.

The presidential election is won by the candidate who has at least 270 electoral votes.

Political Parties & Elections

WHAT IS A POLITICAL PARTY?

A political party is a group of people who share similar ideas and goals about how the government should work. To put their ideas into action, political parties try to help their candidates win elections so together they can make laws and policies that match their party goals.

A party platform is a set of ideas and goals that party leaders agree on. Just because a candidate runs as a member of the Democratic, Republican, Libertarian, or Green Party doesn't mean they agree with or promise to support every part of their party's platform, even if they are running associated with that party.

PARTIES & ELECTIONS

Elections for each race are either partisan or nonpartisan. In non-partisan elections, candidates run without being connected to a political party. In partisan elections, candidates either must have the support of a political party or meet the qualifications to run as an "unaffiliated" candidate. In primary elections, held before the general election, voters from each party choose which candidate will represent their party on the ballot for each office.

What about write-in candidates? Do they need to have a political party?

Write-in voting laws are complex. Write-in candidates are not affiliated with a political party, but they do need to hand in paperwork and signed citizen petitions prior to the election for votes for them to count. Kids Voting does not have a write-in option on its ballot.

POLITICAL PARTIES ON THE 2024 NC BALLOT

This November, in North Carolina, you will see candidates affiliated with the Democratic Party (D), the Republican Party (R), the Libertarian Party (L), the Constitution Party (C), the Green Party, and, Justice for All on the ballot.

Candidates that don't affiliate with any party in a partisan election are identified as "unaffiliated" (U). Sometimes unaffiliated candidates are called "independents."

2024 Referenda

WHAT'S A REFERENDUM?

At the state or local level, voters sometimes have the chance to directly decide on changes to the state constitution, laws, or government spending. These decisions are called referenda.

NC CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

In 2024, the NC Legislature is letting voters decide whether a section of the NC Constitution about voting eligibility should be amended (changed). Currently the constitution reads, "Every person born in the United States and every person who has been naturalized, 18 years of age, and possessing the qualifications set out in this Article, shall be entitled to vote at any election by the people of the State, except as herein otherwise provided."

If the majority of voters choose "for" on this amendment referendum, the constitution will be changed to what is written in the amendment below. If the majority of voters choose "against" the language in the constitution will remain as it currently is.

NC Constitutional Amendment:

Constitutional amendment to provide only a citizen of the United States who is 18 years of age and otherwise possessing the qualifications set out in this Article, shall be entitled to vote at any election in this State.
